Creggan Enterprises

2024

HIGHLIGHTS

Chairperson's Annual Report

I have had the privilege to continue to chair the Board of Trustees of Creggan Enterprises for another year, alongside the other two remaining founder members, and our new Trustees, who, in addition to their experience and passion for Creggan, have brought a much welcome vibrancy and enthusiasm to the Board.

The Development Executive's Report (in the pages that follow) succinctly summarises the local, national and global economic and political context, and its impact on local families and communities – it paints a bleak picture. It is, therefore, all the more remarkable that our social enterprise continues to grow and expand, despite the dire economic political environment.

This has been down to the support of all our tenants and the hard work and skills of our staff team and essential volunteers: Amie Gallagher, Carol Cunningham, Barbara Sweeney, Richie McRory, Meagan Sharkey, Cait Ramsey, Mark McCallion, Joe McAllister, Rachel Carlin, Margaret, and Brian Quigley, Declan Ferry and Kieran McFadden, with the support and guidance from our extraordinary Centre Manager, Kevin Hipsley. I also thank Conal McFeely, founder member and Development Executive for his endless energy, commitment and strategic vision, which has guided and driven CEL for the last 25 years. The trust he has built with key individuals, authorities and governments has ensured CEL's place as a flagship social enterprise and humanitarian hub.

In an environment of ever-increasing price rises and public and funding cuts, the team have managed to secure additional investment to continue to run programmes and deliver services to the Creggan community. This has only been possible because of the reputation and successful delivery of previous projects, and their skill in securing funding applications and building relationships with our key funders.

CEL's primary focus is the physical, economic and social regeneration of deprived communities through the provision of a wide variety of programmes / services which support economic and social inclusion. The provision of practical services – everything from groceries to post office/banking, chemists and child-care, taxis to training, and doctor's surgery, is core to our mission and purpose.

Anne Molloy

Equally important is to create a safe and inclusive space and to continue to speak out and be a voice for tolerance, inclusion and social justice. With the rise in racism and far-right narrative, initiatives like the Revival and Focus projects are important in creating safe shared spaces and opportunities to discuss and explore the facts surrounding current social and political issues which have an impact on the local community.

We have come a long way from the derelict Birmingham Sound Recorders site. The range of services and programmes available at Rath Mor caters for and is open for everyone and every age group. Indeed some 5,000+ unique participants continue to be engaged, supported and serviced throughout the year across our various projects and programmes. The various businesses and projects across the extent of the Centre and Business Park continues to service approx. 15,000 per week.

Creggan Enterprises has always been a pioneer in social enterprise, peace building and social justice, and we continue to hold strong to these principles. I am looking forward to reviewing our strategy later this year and excited to see where we will go to next!

Development Executive's Report

2024 was a demanding and intense year for Creggan Enterprises (CEL). After the difficult but essential work of previous years responding to the once-in-a-lifetime public health crisis, CEL had to rally again to support residents through the ensuing cost-of-living emergency. Spiralling prices for energy, fuel, food and everyday items hit households hard – disadvantaged communities like Creggan most of all. Small businesses suffered too; steep cost increases left many struggling and some unviable in the short term. Wider macro-economic shocks linked to the war in Ukraine, conflict in the Middle East and a more isolationist US continued to produce negative trickle-down effects for families and enterprises, while the most recent UK Budget added further pressure on small firms.

Operationally, CEL upheld its duty of care as a responsible employer while meeting changing community needs and supporting more people on a tighter budget. We pursued cost-saving measures wherever possible to cut unnecessary spend. However, as the 30-plus-year-old Ráth Mór Centre ages, maintenance and upgrade costs have risen across the board, with essential repairs required more frequently. We continue to seek best value and absorb these increases as far as we can.

CEL supported tenants, residents and participants through a mix of mitigation measures, facility enhancements and programmes. Working with Eurospar, our internal initiatives (Focus, Lifehack, etc.) and partners such as Bryson House and CNP, we identified and assisted vulnerable individuals and families via dedicated voucher schemes for food, gas and electricity. We also ran energy-saving cooking programmes that provided air fryers or slow cookers. Our Foodbank donations continued, and the Focus Project addressed other practical gaps in provision. Focus sustained period poverty supports and a high-demand uniform donation/reuse scheme, and it led significant local and regional campaigns – including a Women's Health Strategy Campaign and a Violence Against Women and Girls Campaign – in response to a marked spike in assaults on women.

2024 also brought continued political and community fallout: the medium-term impacts of Brexit; slow progress at Stormont (on a detailed Programme for Government, healthcare waiting lists, group transition and legacy conflict issues, and a meaningful anti-poverty strategy); rising anti-immigrant sentiment and right-wing agitation; persistent seasonal commemoration tensions; and contentious state security measures aimed at quelling protest and “tackling paramilitarism.” Together these dynamics strained relationships across these islands and heightened community division.

Against this backdrop, CEL's peacebuilding, humanitarian and good-relations work strove to de-escalate tensions, make critical interventions, repair relationships, promote reconciliation and animate shared and contested spaces. Although IFI funding supporting this work ended in 2024, we are grateful for continued backing from DFA (Rec Fund) – supporting CIP and CCRP; TEO (CGRF) – supporting Revival; PEACEPLUS (SEUPB) – supporting Lifehack and JRCT – supporting Focus. Ráth Mór continued to welcome individuals, communities and groups from across these islands and internationally to network, share learning, open new conversations and advance social enterprise, good relations, reconciliation, peacebuilding and community cohesion/development.

Looking ahead, CEL must also ensure our services are open and inclusive to new communities and minority constituencies, supporting their integration with local residents and helping to counter racist hate rhetoric spread online.

There is no doubt that 2024 created a challenging operating environment for any organisation seeking to recruit, retain and support staff; respond to shifting community and customer needs (including drastic changes in customer behaviour); manage rising costs; compete with new market entrants and multi-channel models; and sustain market share. CEL was no exception. It is vital that in 2025/26 we stay open to fresh ideas and develop the capacity and flexibility to adapt to a volatile context. Even amid potentially difficult economic conditions, I believe CEL can continue to inspire disadvantaged communities to drive their own regeneration, revival and renewal – demonstrating the value of the social economy and the promise of economic democracy.

I am proud to have witnessed a significant regeneration of the Creggan community over the last three decades alongside the growth of Ráth Mór as the sustainable, essential community facility it is today.

It now falls to the next generation of CEL staff and community leaders to re-imagine a new vision for the organisation and community – one that ensures continuity of services for future generations of Creggan residents. Our Lifehack project will support this endeavour by continuing to work to inspire future generations of new leaders.

We must not be complacent – we must keep pace with needs and compete on price, value, service and delivery across the many sectors CEL straddles. With appropriate measures in place and the strategic support of our new Board, I am confident CEL will remain sustainable, relevant and a vital, vibrant community asset for many years to come.

Finally, my sincere thanks to our staff and to our voluntary Board of Directors/Trustees, who have been central to CEL's achievements over the decades. I extend wholehearted thanks to our new Trustees/Directors – Sean Canavan, Garbhan Downey, Shauna Nixon and James Nash – who have embraced their roles with energy and commitment. In the coming years, CEL must continue to strengthen its governance and feedback functions (by growing Board membership and deepening community ties), with strategic planning and operational diversification – alongside sustainability – emerging as primary objectives for 2025–26.

Draft Treasurer's Report

I attach a financial summary of Creggan Enterprises Limited for the year ended 31 December 2024. During the period the Trustees approved the independent valuation of the freehold property at the Ráth Mór Complex. This was carried out on 10/10/24 and the property was valued at approx. £4.8M. this resulted in a revaluation gain of £1.5M and this is recognised within other gains and losses in the SOFA.

I am pleased to report that despite the significant challenges which 2024 presented – the Charity remains sustainable. Factoring in depreciation of £111K there is a nominal deficit of £39K in respect of Net Incoming Resources. This has been achieved by generating £803k which is a very solid performance (given the circumstances and the pressures on small business), with expenditure totalling £842k (including depreciation). Cashflow has increased by £160K over the period to provide a net cash position of £388K.

I wish to thank our funders, outlined in Note 2 of our accounts, for their support and for the continued loyalty from our tenants during this difficult year.

The Balance Sheet reflects a relatively solid financial position for the Charity and despite the longtail difficulties of Covid, and renewed challenges presented by Brexit, a Cost of Living Crisis, and other global shocks

James Nash
(Treasurer)

– Creggan Enterprises remain in a stable position to weather what could continue be a very tough time for the community and economy in the coming months.

There is little room for complacency however and the organisation will need to focus on cost-control and widening its funding portfolio in the coming periods. As the treasurer for the Charity – I will continue to promote best practice with an emphasis on sustainability going forward. With some letting issues arising as a result of harsh economic times, changing community demographics and behaviours, and reduced footfall – the Charity must continue to manage costs, review its income model and consider new innovative approaches to meet beneficiary need in a sustainable way.

I wish to thank all our staff for making these results possible and thank the people of Creggan and surrounding areas for their continued support.

Support for Older People

The 50+ Club continued its regular programme of activities throughout the year (for some 60+ participants), supplemented by activities and opportunities delivered under our Revival Programme. This year marked the 20th Birthday for the Club – so a series of events and celebrations were organised by CEL and the Club. The Creggan Older Mens Social Club located in the lower site continued their work in their allotment on the site and access to their regular indoor activities for older men (i.e. snooker). The Mens Club has been taken-in now by the Old Library Trust who will be looking to relocate them to a purpose built facility at the Healthy Living Centre, possibly early 2026. In the meantime CEL carried out a range of works in their unit to ensure compliant and accessible. Throughout 2024 – CEL also continued to support the work of Creggan Day Care Centre by sponsoring regular weekly entertainment sessions for their clients.

Revival Shared Space Project

The Ráth Mór Revival Shared Space Project - funded under the Central Good Relations Fund (TEO) typically coordinates a wide range of activities, training opportunities, cross-community events, fun activities and large scale events over the year. The project seeks to widen participation, animate the Ráth Mór complex, combat the negative perception of the Creggan area, increase footfall and promote Ráth Mór as a safe shared space for all traditions. Throughout 2024 the programme focused on the delivery of a wide range of good relations activities, fundays, workshops, music, competitions (i.e. Foyle Schools Poetry Competition) and cultural events/activities (including a series of diverse multi-cultural sessions and good relations workshops). The project works with a range of user-groups including schools and youth groups, older people's programmes as well as open events for the general public.

Lifehack Project

The IFI PYDP funded Lifehack (LH) project continued the delivery of planned and seasonal youth programming over the reporting period. This programme engaged marginalised and at risk young people (aged 16-24). The LH IFI element completed at the end of December 2024. Kevin and Rachel worked to wind down the project from May and exit/transition participants over to the new 4-year PEACEPLUS funded 'Lifehack Journeys' Project (which Meagan and Richie moved over to). There was a final end of Project report completed early January 25 (with a final claim) and a video produced, which summarised the work of the project over the previous 7 years (with IFI). The video was completed with the contribution of 30 + participants and showcased hundreds of photos and a number of individual testimonies.

Cohort 1 (33 young people) of Lifehack Journeys' Participants began in May 2024 (staged to complete in March 2025). This project works alongside a number of partners, including: Springboard Opportunities; Roe Valley Residents Association and ETB Cavan Monaghan. The associated incentive scheme (facilitated by DfE) provides participants with a £8 p/d stipend – which helps with retention. This cross-community project, which was formally launched at Ráth Mór in November 24, required the recruitment of two additional members of project staff and works with Lincoln Courts Community Association as an Associate Partner.

Throughout 2024 – CEL's LH programmes engaged in a range of programming, including:

- Creggan Country Park community visit
- Team building – go karting
- Introduction to theatre lighting
- Adventure sports & Inish Adventures
- Oakfire - tree top course

- Nail and hair care
- Total golf driving range day out
- Giants Causeway visit
- Kick boxing / K1 with Strike Martial Arts
- Job Fair
- Surfing School
- Evening with ARC
- Family funday fundraising
- Celebration dinner
- Residential in Tullagh Bay
- Good relations visits to Belfast
- #DayOn Charity Event (Foyle Search & Rescue)
- Autumn crafts
- Springboard Journeys camp
- Water Safety swim session
- Good relations creative futures event
- Bowling alley visit
- Good Relations OCN
- ASCERT: Lifeskills training
- World Mental Health Week fitness training
- 5 Steps to Wellbeing session

Focus Project

The Focus project completed the second year of their current £192K programme supported by the Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust. This project is working to build the capacity of young women from the Creggan (and wider) areas delivering a targeted programme of intervention with parents/families most in need – particularly since the cost of living crisis.

Focus continues to be a leading voice in the 'Violence Against Women' campaign (and were asked to speak at a number of rallies, on panels and radio interviews etc in 2024). Focus members are pictured below at a rally in Guildhall Square at the end of 2024 – holding images of the 24 women who lost their lives (to violence) in the North since 2020.

Over the period - Focus also: delivered a series of practical self defence and awareness classes for women; workshops in healthy relationships to young women from Shepherd's View project; engaged in workshops with Helen Henderson in Human rights and System Change; and took part in a visit to East Erne Empowered Women (Lisnaskea) for a stress management workshop along with participants from Ealu Women's Project (Dungannon).

This project also continues to do important work to support some very marginalised families within our community (complementing some of our quiet diplomacy work) and is facilitating engagement with the likes of Human Rights Commission, Centre for the Administration of Justice, the Irish Congress for Civil Liberties and the International Committee of the Red Cross.

Focus also worked with Bryson House to deliver Cost of Living / Wellbeing workshops; and with 'Catalyst' to provide support for potential female entrepreneurs. A spin off Focus programme – 'The Community Awareness Programme' was led and delivered by two key Focus volunteers (Margaret and Rachel); and a series of complementary community development and capacity building workshops. These volunteers also provided facilitation services for Lifehack, CIP and Revival and both took on paid roles during the period (Rachel with Lifehack and Margaret with Princes Trust).

Focus continued its annual hosting of a Hustings Event (focusing on Women's issues) at Ráth Mór in 2024 and the development of a successful Free Uniform reuse scheme (supporting 200+ families over the period). Focus also delivered a Winter Coat & Free Stationery (return to school) Schemes (supporting 150+ families).

FOCUS & Catalyst NEW YEAR, NEW START!

CATALYST are an independent, non-profit science and technology hub focused on fostering innovation and entrepreneurship in Northern Ireland.

CATALYST is looking to connect with WOMEN who have the dream of starting their own businesses or who are at the stage that starting a business was an option for them in the past.

- Women who would like to explore starting their own business.
- Women who didn't go to college or get fancy degrees.
- Women who have moved from other countries etc.

Cohesion & Reconciliation Programme

This three-year (£150K) DFA funded Strategic Partnership programme started year 3 programming in September 2024. During 2024 CCRP worked intensively with its regular female participants from the CNR areas of Creggan/Bogside and the PUL areas of Lincoln Courts and Bond Street. It also engaged and recruited a second cohort of (male) participants from the Irish Street area. Participants have engaged with local residents in Ráth Mór on a number of varied good relations and cross-community workshops.

In 2024 CCRP worked on a range of heritage-themed and well-being workshops in conjunction with Saint Columb's Park House, Bryson Group and new cross-border partners (Rathmullan Way Forward / Letterkenny Cathedral Quarter Group). CCRP also worked on a creative writing programme with the cross-community female cohort, and opened up its history programme (exploring the impact of Emigration / Immigration in the North West and the local sites and heritage associated with WWII) to the new cohort of male participants.

CCRP has also placed one of its PUL volunteers in the Oaktree Centre to facilitate a range of diversionary activities for its service users in 2024. CCRP's 2024 Residential took in a range of engagements in Rathmullan and Letterkenny including the Letterkenny Cathedral Quarter group's 'Living History Tour'.

CCRP has made good strides in repairing and building relationships with some of the city's more marginalised PUL communities, which is positive in the current climate and is pertinent to supporting the development and roll-out of a number of other funding programmes and opportunities. CCRP is also working with our 50+

Club to try to rebuild/revive some of their programming going forward, and also ties in with some of our Revival Programming securing PUL participation and engagement where required. CCRP participants were also very keen to engage in our new PEACEPLUS Unlocking Silent Heritage Project (which was scheduled to start May 2025).

Community Inclusion Programme

CE's Community Inclusion Programme (CIP) funded by IFI under the Peace Impact Programme completed a range of community development, reimagining, capacity building, transition, peacebuilding and sensitive seasonal engagement and diversionary work over the period (working with a range of local partners and constituencies across the city and beyond), including a range of mediation, intervention work and bonfire/parade engagement.

CIP working alongside our Focus Project, engaged in dialogue and work around humanitarian negotiation and social justice issues in association with the International Committee of the Red Cross, CAJ, Human Rights Commissioners and CCHN.

CIP workers also met with and presented to range of influential international policy makers, academics and peacebuilding organisations over the period and made a number of presentations to government departments and the Independent Reporting Commission in respect of Transition and Conflict Transformation. One of the final output's of CIP was the development of an accredited OCN Community Mediation course – which has since been delivered to a number of local groups.

CEL's IFI PIP funding for CIP ended in March 24. CEL were able to secure a small pot of funding from DFA Rec Fund to cover some of the mediation/intervention/transition aspects of the work from August 2024. CIP dovetails with the work of CE's Joseph Rowntree funded Community Dialogue Programme (CDP) which support Conal's work via the Independent Assessment Team (with oversight of the separated prison regime) and to promote transition on an all-island basis. CEL (and Focus) continued to work with CNP over the period to support some of the work of their new IFI funded PIP Project.
